Our Consultants

Partnerships of any kind are based on one major fundamental – trust.

To this end, Smiths will work with you in an open-book environment with the sole objective of helping you maximise profit through the provision of solutions. Helping you manage your business better, whilst providing total efficiency and the seamless interface that so many outsourced solutions lack.

A dedicated consultant will work closely with you. This individual will become totally conversant with your business and industry, including its culture, fit, nuances and skill sets, enabling positions to be filled with the right candidates. Interactions are proactive and designed to add value to your business rather than be reactive, with a “supply” mentality.

Our consultants are equipped with laptop computers with the latest recruitment-industry specific software. In fact, everything needed to fulfil your requirements as easily from remote locations as from the office, making them truly contactable 24/7.
